THE WOOL TARIFF BILL IS PASSED

Reduction of About Half of Present Duty.

ONE DEMOCRAT AGAINST IT

The House Passes Underwood Tariff Measure Reducing Tariff on Wool and Wool Products by a Vote of 221 to 100—Twenty-six Republicans Vote in Favor of Bill.

Washington, June 21.—The house of representatives, by a vote of 221 to 100, passed the Underwood wool tariff revision bill providing for a reduction of the duty on wool and manufactures of wool.

Twenty-four Republicans voted with the Democrats for the passage of the measure, and one Democrat, Representative Francis of Ohio, voted against it.

Many amendments were offered and voted down, the only one adopted being a slight change in phraseology. Immediately preceding the final vote, a motion by Representative Payne of New York, that the bill be resubmitted to the ways and means committee with instructions that it await a report from the tariff board on the woolen industry before making final report on the bill, was lost by a vote of 189 to 118.

Underwood Controls Forces.

Representative Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee, and in charge of the bill, kept his forces well together in their opposition to all amendments. While some Democrats proposed amendments, with one exception, they voted with the party when the bill came to passage.

Representative Gray of Indiana offered an amendment to place raw wool on the free list, instead of 20 per cent ad valorem as the bill provides, and to recommit the bill to the committee with instructions that manufactures of wool be reduced to 20 per cent ad valorem. This was lost.

Representative Murdock, one of the progressive Republicans, who finally voted for the bill, proposed several amendments placing certain grades of wool on the free list. His purpose in these amendments, he stated, was to give to the American people protection from the worsted trust by making free "those articles which enter into the manufacture of trust-controlled woolen products."

Mr. Murdock appealed to Representative Harrison of New York, a Democratic member of the ways and means committee, and to others of the party who had favored placing wool on the free list, to support him.

Mr. Harrison replied that he would "vote for the bill, although he would have placed raw wool on the free list if his personal desires had prevailed."

Provisions of Bill.

The bill places a duty of 20 per cent ad valorem on raw wool imports, as against an average duty of a little more than 44 per cent ad valorem under the present law.

On partly manufactured wool and on products manufactured in whole or in part from wool the average duty under the proposed law would be about 42.5 per cent ad valorem, as compared with the present average ad valorem duty of more than 90 per cent.

The ways and means committee has estimated that the bill would reduce the annual revenue under the woolen schedule of the tariff by a little more than $1,000,000.

The bill prescribes that it shall be in effect January 1, but it is not believed it will pass the senate at this session.

HUNTER KNEW MAYOR DUMAS

Yeggman Admits Acquaintance With Doctor-Mayor.

Stillwater, Minn., June 21.—G. A. Hunter (Minnesota Slim), a yegg in the state prison, told officials that he knew Dr. D. T. Dumas, mayor of Cass Lake, very well, as the physician-mayor now charged with being the leader of a band of incendiaries, had come to his aid at various times. So said State Fire Marshal Keller on his return from Stillwater with Assistant Inspector Fielding, who heard the story Hunter told in the state penitentiary.

"Hunter was reticent at first," Mr. Keller said, "but gradually he admitted an acquaintance with Dr. Dumas and gave us what we consider valuable information. Our trip this afternoon was highly successful and very profitable."

Further than that he refused to comment on the trip or reveal any of the details of the statement he said the prisoner made.

Need Better Transportation.

Mandan, N. D., June 21.—Indications that there will be an exceptionally large crop in Oliver, Mercer and Dunn counties has resulted in a demand from that section for better facilities for transportation. The boats on the Missouri will not be capable of handling the crop this fall, according to the present outlook. Throughout that region the crop prospects are of the very brightest nature.

WHEREABOUTS OF DAVIS MYSTERY

Officers Make Vain Search for Third Robber.

BEHAN SECURES A LAWYER

Following Information, Officers Search for Puposky Bandit in Cabin Near Bemidji With Ill Success—Wounded Member of Gang Refuses to Implicate Other Suspects.

Bemidji, Minn., June 21.—An armed sortie was made by two officers and a Pinkerton detective to a cabin hidden in the woods about eleven miles north of Bemidji, in which a "tip" had located "Manchester Curly" Davis, the safe cracker and general bad man, who escaped when the attempt to blow the safe at Puposky last Friday night was flushed by a cleverly planned flank movement.

Trip Proves Erroneous.

The tip was wrong, but it was not until the cabin had been searched from top to bottom that the idea that Curly might "open up" at any moment from a hiding place was abandoned.

Those who took part in the sortie were H. J. Ormsby, postoffice inspector; Bill Hazen, deputy sheriff, and a Pinkerton man who has veiled his identity in these parts under the name of Johnson.

They set out early in the afternoon, making the trip to the neighborhood of the cabin in an automobile.

More than a mile from the cabin, which is a bit north of Turtle lake, the men left the machine and with their guns ready for instant use, made their way through the brush and forest to the cabin. There they were met by a woman, who submitted to an examination of the premises. It was unavailing and the men returned to Bemidji.

In the meantime the Pinkerton men and officers who went out from this town on the trail of Davis are still in the brush and swamp beating the woods for the men.

But the crowd which searched the Puposky woods returned to Bemidji convinced that Davis has made his way out of this district.

Behan Sees a Lawyer.

The first conversation Martin Behan, the captured yegg, has been permitted to have with an outsider since he was brought to the jail here took place when G. M. Torrance, a local attorney, called at the jail and informed Sheriff Hazen that he had been sent by a local bartender named Riley to see the prisoner as his lawyer.

Torrance and Behan talked of the Puposky affair, but Behan was careful not to say anything tending to implicate Dr. Dumas, the arrested mayor of Cass Lake, or any other person in the arson and safe blowing cases.

This is the attitude Behan has held to since his capture. In spite of the efforts of officers to get him to confess that he had relations with Dumas and "Manchester Curly," and in spite of reports that he had made a partial statement and is on the verge of completing it, it is known that so far Behan has given the prosecution little if any help.

Drove Robbers to Puposky.

Doc Adamson admits having driven the robbers to Puposky. He says he took the men to within a short distance of Puposky and that when they got out they told him it was none of his business where they were going and to "beat it."

Adamson said he obeyed the instruction when they thrust an automatic Savage revolver in his face.

Adamson's story is corroborated by Gil Peterson, a farmer who lives on the road to Puposky. He says he saw Adamson drive by with two men and return alone.

Detectives here say that a third robber went to Puposky on the afternoon train the day of the robbery.

Mayor Dumas of Cass Lake has returned to that city and is attending to his medical practice and the duties which devolve upon him as mayor.

ELKINS ESTATE IS SUED

West Virginia Alleges Late Senator Owes $1,087,697 Taxes.

Elkins, W. Va., June 21.—A motion for judgment against the Davis Trust company, former Senator Davis Elkins and S. B. Elkins, Jr., as executors of the will of late United States Senator S. B. Elkins, has been filed by Prosecuting Attorney H. G. Kump at the Randolph county circuit court clerk's office.

The motion alleges that Senator Elkins was a defaulting taxpayer and that he has forfeited to West Virginia $585,043.40 in 1909, $277,773 in 1910 and by his executors $341,910.90 in 1911, making in all, with interest, $1,087,697.90, which the prosecutor contends must be paid over to West Virginia by the executors for the senator's failure to properly list his property for taxation.

GRAND JURY HAS INDICTED BREN

Grand Larceny Charge Placed Against "U" Treasurer.

Minneapolis, June 21.—Joseph D. Bren has been indicted by the Hennepin county grand jury on a charge of grand larceny of $21,616.31 of the university funds. Bren was former cashier and accountant for the state institution. On June 2 he reported he was held up and robbed of $13,500 which he was carrying in a grip to the accountant's office. Included in the amount mentioned in the indictment are the funds Bren paid to the public examiner and money found in the vault.

In returning the indictment the grand jury took no cognizance of the money Bren returned to the university to cover, he said, any shortage which might be found. The county attorney explained that when Mr. Bren did not produce this money on demand of the proper authorities he immediately became liable to prosecution, and the fact that some money was paid over to cover shortages would not alter the case.

The gross amount, therefore, includes the $13,826.79 of which Mr. Bren said he was robbed by highwaymen, the $4,990 which appeared in a tin box in the university vault where the authorities had several times failed to find it, and the $710 and $300 he turned over to the University to cover shortages. This totals but $19,886.79. The difference in this figure and the one mentioned in the indictment is the additional alleged shortage the examiners report as shown by Bren's books.

Assistant County Attorney W. M. Nash made the statement that there was an additional shortage of between $6,000 and $7,000, but this was not brought to the attention of the grand jury.

The indictment, Mr. Robertson explained, is but a preliminary to what may follow after the accountants have made a complete examination of the scores of funds that were in Bren's care.

C. W. Farwell, assistant cashier of the Northwestern National bank, was the first witness of the day before the grand jury. Following Mr. Farwell came Frank N. Stacy, deputy public examiner. Mr. Stacy was followed by Miss Gussie Ryan, clerk in Bren's office at the university. D. W. Sprague, also in the office, testified to the books. C. P. Decker, secretary to the board of regents and purchasing agent of the university, added a little more.

BIG FIRE AT GROTON, N. D.

Loss in Blaze Which Threatened Town Estimated at $100,000.

Groton, N. D., June 21.—Fire which broke out at 11:30 o'clock in the rear of the Independent Lumber and Hardware company threatened the entire town and caused a loss estimated at $100,000.

The buildings and stock piles of the Independent company were destroyed as well as the garage and barn owned by F. C. Bowles, which contained automobiles, carriages and harness.

The water supply gave out at 2 o'clock a. m. At about the same time electric light wires were burned off by the flames and the town's sole source of illumination was from the fire.

Tramps are said to have robbed five places of business during the excitement. At 2:05 o'clock the flames were spreading to other buildings.

Eddy Case Answer Soon.

Concord, N. H., June 21.—An agreement to allow counsel for Henry M. Baker, executor of the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, to file on or before July 1 an answer to the bill brought in the United States district court by Dr. E. J. Foster-Eddy of Waterbury, Vt., seeking to have the residuary clause of Mrs. Eddy's will declared invalid, was reached by counsel for plaintiff and defendant at the opening of the June term of court here.

CASTRO CAUSES MORE TROUBLE

Adventurers in Latin America Worry Uncle Sam.

THEY NEED WATCHFUL EYE.

State Department Officials Could Have Quiet Summer if Soldiers of Fortune Would Take a Vacation—Departure of Diaz Does Not Guarantee Peace Will Endure in Mexico.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 23.—[Special.]—Our state department officials could have a comparatively quiet summer if it were not for the Castros, the Zelayas, the Maderos and a few other descendants of Spanish immigrants in South and Central America. With our Monroe doctrine to maintain and the necessity of policing the American continent it is essential for our officials who look after foreign affairs to keep a watchful eye on those who are ready to incite revolution and set up new governments.

About the most pestiferous person the United States has ever had on its hands is Castro. Back in the days when the scholarly John Hay presided over the state department Castro was a thorn in the pathway of that serene diplomat. "That dirty little dog, Castro," was Hay's expression when dealing with Venezuelan affairs.

It is believed that the reports that foreigners are now getting valuable concessions for which large fees are paid to government officials in Venezuela has had a great deal to do with bringing Castro back to the scenes of his former exploits.

Trouble in Mexico.

Nor is there any guarantee of peace in Mexico. The departure of Diaz has not satisfied the turbulent revolutionists. Nor will they be satisfied until they have an opportunity to handle the public funds, grant concessions and, in short, "get their share of the swag." Of what use is a revolution unless the leaders can make some profit?

The patriotism of so many soldiers of fortune in the southern republics is measured by the amount of money they can obtain, and our officials are busy keeping watch of events in the disturbed territories.

Would Save $150,000,000.

Congressman Bartholdt of Missouri, known as the apostle of disarmament, or, rather, the reduction of armaments, says that if the arbitration program which has been proposed by President Taft could be carried out in good faith by all nations it would save the United States $150,000,000 a year.

"Think what we could accomplish with that money," said the man from St. Louis, "in the way of internal improvements, art and science. Of course there would have to be a certain amount of military strength maintained, but we could save a great sum annually that could be spent to a better purpose. President Taft has looked far ahead, and he ought to be upheld."

What Slayden Wanted.

A man with a big picture of the battle of Gettysburg to sell went to Congressman Slayden's room to negotiate because the Texas member is chairman of the committee on library, which handles all such matters. Of course Slayden knew that an economical Democratic administration of the house would not buy pictures, so he joked the dealer.

"If you want favorable consideration from me," he said, "don't come around with Federal victories. Bring in a few Confederate victories with the Yankees getting the worst of it. That will interest me."

Too Tame For Mann.

It is a matter of great regret to Minority Leader Jim Mann that the house of representatives is running along so smoothly. He would like to have more disturbance, something in the nature of a riot each day, but the well-disciplined Democracy refuses to be taunted into affording Mann that pleasure.

"Well, we'll wait for the regular session," said Mann. "Then there will be a different condition. The business of the house will not then be all the time under the management of Oscar Underwood, and they will make more mistakes on the Democratic side."

"Frank Is a Brother of Bill."

A Minnesota summer resort received quite a little advertising out of a proposition of Frank Nye to have a summer capital established on the shores of one of the many lakes. President Taft and his successors were to be given a summer home, and probably congress was to be moved up there in case of a summer session.

A Minnesota man was asked about the project and replied: "Frank is a brother of Bill Nye, and Bill, you remember, was a noted humorist. It probably runs in the family."

Imaginations in the House.

"This place," said Congressman Roher of Missouri, referring to the house of representatives, where he was making a speech, "is the greatest place" was ever in for men to draw upon their imaginations."

And that was just after the many speeches had been made upon the Canadian reciprocity agreement and the farmers' free list bills.

A Limited Always.

"I always agree with my husband." "Very sweet of you." "Except, of course, when he's wrong."—Exchange.

KING AND QUEEN GIVE BANQUET

Entertain Royalty and Foreign Visitors at Buckingham.

London, June 21.—The most regal banquet palace of king or emperor ever witnessed and a gorgeous Shakespeare ball under the auspices of noted society leaders stand forth as shining features of the second day of coronation week.

The banquet in Buckingham palace was a scene of imperial grandeur, so far as the assembly of royal and eminent personages, the setting of costly magnificence and beautiful decorations could combine to make it.

The two largest apartments in the palace, the ballroom and the picture gallery which adjoins, were utilized as a banquet hall. On the tables was displayed the royal gold plate, used only on historic occasions, the cost of which is estimated at $15,000,000, and its weight eight tons. The gallery holds more than 800 pictures.

The Shakespearean ball was held in Albert hall, which was elaborately decorated. The dancers numbered thousands, while 400 boxes were occupied by the representatives of foreign nations and the most prominent British officials. As many as twenty-nine quadrilles were danced simultaneously, the participants representing groups of characters from Shakespeare's plays.

In the morning the king received most of the foreign envoys formally. In the afternoon, with the queen, he went through a rehearsal of the coronation at the abbey, and later gave a special audience to John Hays Hammond, who presented to his majesty a letter from President Taft.

The other important events of the day included luncheons to the dominion premiers and mayors, a party by the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire and a review of the colonial troops by War Secretary Haldane.

This has been a perfect summer day and the population is transformed as nearly to carnival spirit as Englishmen ever could be. Countless electric globes in various designs illuminate the streets, which from curb to curb are filled with hundreds of thousands of people. St. James park and the West End club region were jammed to suffocation.

500 BUYS CHICAGO PROPERTY

Will Build New Terminal With Large Trackage.

Minneapolis, June 21.—The Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie road has bought valuable and extensive freight terminal property in Chicago. This property cost millions of dollars and will be improved with freight tracks and a freight house. It will be the freight home of the Soo line in the heart of the city, and is believed to be one of the most strategic positions for a freight yard obtainable in Chicago.

This purchase follows closely an acquisition of 180 acres in North Minneapolis by the Soo.

Purchase of the property by the Soo line was disclosed by condemnation suits brought in Chicago to pave the way for another great railroad terminal station on the West Side. The property represents an area of five or six blocks and is valued in the millions. It is the last block of property needed to connect the present holdings of the railroads entering the present union station with the Sixteenth street outlet and give a clear sweep of trackage and freight yard property between the Chicago river and Clinton street.

LUMBER TRUST PROBE IS OVER

Grand Jury to Spend Two Days Considering Evidence.

Chicago, June 21.—Clark McKecher, special United States attorney conducting the investigation into the so-called lumber trust, announced that no more witnesses would be examined. He declared the grand jury probably would spend two days considering the evidence and would report to Judge Landis Friday or Saturday.

THIRTEEN INJURED IN PANIC

Passengers Are Pushed Off From Burning Trolley Car.

Buffalo, June 21.—During a panic which followed the burning out of a controller on a trolley car on the Niagara Falls line near Tonawanda one person was probably fatally injured and twelve others were badly hurt. Eight of the injured are delegates to the convention of the Modern Woodmen of America now in session here.

As the car was running at a rapid speed with fifty passengers aboard there was a flash of flame in the vestibule, and the motorman was seen trying vainly to apply the brakes. When it became apparent that the car was out of control and the blaze began to spread, the passengers became panic stricken, and a rush was made for the rear platform.

The foremost were pushed off the platform while the car was running at the rate of twenty miles an hour.

ADMIT LYCHING RANCHER

Members of Prominent Nebraska Families Confess.

Valentine, Neb., June 21.—Harry Heath, William Murphy and Vena Murphy have confessed that they lynched Charles Sellers, a young ranchman, taking him from the home of Jack Hutch, a neighboring ranchman, and hanging him to a telegraph pole.

They declared Sellers had threatened the lives of Murphy and his sister, of whom Sellers was enamored. Harry Heath also loved the girl and he and Sellers quarreled frequently. Heath says Sellers threatened to kill him.

Fearing, they say, that Sellers might carry out his threats, they stole at night to the Hutch ranch, twenty miles south of Cody, dragged Sellers from bed and lynched him. They were arrested in Cody but were brought here for safe keeping. The men all belong to prominent families. Further trouble is feared.

His Fortune.

"Who is that handsome young man standing over there?" inquired an old gentleman of a rich old lady at a party.

"That's my son-in-law. He's a very brilliant young man; made a large fortune by the law."

"Indeed?" said the old gentleman.

"How's that?"

"The law made him my daughter's husband."—London Answers.

To extend the life of one really fine old oak tree who would not willingly cut down whole groups of other trees? How infinitely greater is the incentive when one considers a group of titan oaks, lofty, wide spreading, ruggedly picturesque, with vigor unimpaired and grandeur increasing for centuries. GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

The Jury Finds Erick Maki Guilty at Half Past Nine O'clock Last Evening

COURT HASTILY ASSEMBLED

Counsel for Defense Requests a Poll
of the Jury Which is Granted

At six o'clock last evening the jury in the Maki case retired to its deliberations. They had supper and then returned, wrestling with the problem committed to them for solution.

At about 9:30 a verdict was agreed upon and court hastily assembled.
Judge Stanton, Clerk of Court W. A.
M. Johnston, the bailiffs and Sheriff Reid assumed their places. The jury filed in and the verdict was read:

"We, the jury, find a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment."

It was signed by William H. Ros-enkrantz.

W. W. Barron, counsel for Erick
Maki, requested a poll of the jury,
which was done.

"Is this your verdict?" said the clerk to each of the jurors, and each answered in the affirmative.

At two o'clock this afternoon sentence was passed on Erick Maki.

After making the usual inquiries
the court asked Maki if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed. Maki said he wasn't guilty and wanted a new trial. The court then sentenced him to imprisonment for life in the penitentiary.

NATATORIUM FOR BRAINERD

Construction About to Commence on Swimming Pool 25 by 40

Feet in Size

AT 512 FRONT STREET

George Ridley, the Proprietor, Will Also Install Gymnasium and Turkish Baths

An up to date and modern natatorium is being constructed by George Ridley at 512 Front street and the proprietor expects to have this innovation for Brainerd in running order by July 1st.

The swimming pool or natatorium will be of cement construction and will measure 25 feet in width and 40 feet in length. It will have a depth of from three to eight feet.
Light floods the room, coming from the large skylights and the windows.
To a man tied down in this city and no show to go to the lakes in this hot weather, a plunge in the pool will be a most welcome relief from the tortures of summer heat. From the plans made the building with all its accessories will be the finest natatorium in the northwest.

The front room on the main floor
will be the gymnasium equipped with all the latest apparatus necessary.
The basement will contain the Turkish baths, shower baths, rest rooms,
lockers, etc.

There will be special days for ladies and lady attendants will be in charge then. Mr. Ridley has had much experience in gymnasium and natatorium work and the venture is certainly assured of success, for it is something that is really needed in Brainerd.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness,
and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect
hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition,
hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh,
which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for

MAKES POWERFUL PLEA TO JURY

County Attorney Fleming Makes Masterly Address to the Jury
in the Maki Case

CLOSING SCENES OF TRIAL

Attorney Barron Pleads for Maki—Judge Stanton Charges the Jury at 5:30 P. M.

Yesterday afternoon County Attorney W. A. Fleming commenced his address to the jury. It was a powerful plea that justice be done and that the dignity of the law be maintained. In clear, concise, comprehensive language Judge Fleming traced
the course of events of that bloody day of crime. He referred to little Mary Hill who saw Maki leap from the second story window of the Hill residence.

"We have proven," said Mr. Fleming, "the death of Earl Edmund Rel-ly. We have proven how he came to his death and that the man who killed him had a motive, that he took that little boy to the bathhouse.
We have shown how the little children gave the alarm, how the grandfather was told and how he rushed to the bathhouse and entered it and saw his little grandson lying on the floor with blood running from his nose and mouth. He still had life enough in his broken frame to say:
"Erick Maki struck me hard." With his last breath he had told his grandfather who had done the deed.

"We have shown you how John Bakkila ran several blocks to tell the mother about her boy and that he was gone seven minutes. Again the grandfather enters the bathhouse.
But the boy is dead.

"Where is Maki now? Running from the scene of his terrible crime.
Do you think that an innocent man would run away? If his hands were not red with the blood of this boy do you think he would run away?"

"Bakkila comes out of the bath-
house and sees Maki at the Hill house and accuses him of the crime. These are not things to guess about. You have been shown the truth. Maki goes to the Hill home. Does he act like an innocent man?"

"The evidence of his guilt is on the door, the blood of the innocent boy dripping from the door frame where his fingers imprinted the stain.

"How will you explain that on the theory of the defense? I am going to show you that Maki never scratched his hand. Maki was not playing the accordion now. He is getting away from the scene of his crime.
He meets the old man again who charges him with the deed. Maki goes again to Hill's and rushes upstairs. There are three men there drinking beer. And when you question one of these witnesses as to how and when Maki left the room that man tells you that he went to his room and does not know what Maki
did. Erick and that pale faced boy are the only ones to say that they they came down the stairs. Are you going to believe these two or will you believe the story of little Mary Hill who saw Maki leap out of the window?"

"And when he sprang from that window he left the same tell-tale mark on the window sill. He left the same bloody stain on that sill that he had left on the door that he entered. Sheriff Reid and little Mary Hill both saw these bloody imprints. Does an innocent man jump out of a second story window when he leaves a residence?"

"And this story of going to East

Brainerd to see the town at that hour is rubbish and rot. And his other story about seeing a woman near the railroad track and running to avoid her. And then his running to the ravine to secret himself.

"The quantity of blood which Maki had on his hands never came from scratches as he claimed. He got those scratches, it is claimed, by rubbing on the rough wall of the stairway. And the evidence shows that rough wall was on the other side.
No man when wounded holds his hand
long enough at such a place to leave a bloody imprint.

"The complete chain of proven facts shows that none other than Erick Maki committed this deed. Is there any doubt about it? I want to refer to the insinuation that the old man Bakkila did it. Such a conclusion is utterly impossible to arrive at from the evidence we have presented to you.

"I have tried to do my best in this case. If I have assisted you in arriving at the truth in this matter I am satisfied, and if you find that this defendant is guilty of the crime of murder as charged I am satisfied you are acting in accordance with the evidence presented."

W. W. Barron, attorney for the defendant Maki, followed with his plea
to the jury. "The county attorney," said Mr. Barron, insinuated that the defense was proceeding with a theory. We have a theory and it is that Erick Maki is innocent. The liberty of a human being is at stake.
No matter how low in the social scale or how humble his station
every man is believed to be innocent until proven guilty. A chain of circumstantial evidence is no stronger than its weakest link.

"The county attorney said the first thing to look for was a motive. Is there any scintilla of evidence that Erick Maki quarreled with Earl Rel-ly about the knife? If Maki had had proof that Earl had stolen it, do you think any sane human being would stamp out the life of such an innocent boy for such a cause?"

"We find Earl living in a house with two men and not a woman at this home. And when the grandfather found the little boy lying in the bathhouse, why in God's name didn't he run and get a doctor? Instead of that he goes away seven minutes to see his mother and leaves the injured boy on the floor of the bathhouse.

"Earl had no bed in that home with his grandfather. He slept on a mattress and frequently Maki, Bakkila and Earl slept together.
Sometimes he got something to eat and at other times nothing. There is a far more powerful motive sticking through this case for whoever did it was in a sudden fit of passion to punish Earl.

"John Bakkila spent whole days at his farm and left the little fellow to shift for himself. At that period of a boy's life when he needs a mother's tenderest care there was hardly any one to look after Earl. His mother had no room for him.

He traced the movements of Maki
on that day and said they were of an innocent character. He attacked the testimony of little Mary Hill who had seen Maki leap from the window.
"No man," said Mr. Barron, "could tell a day's sequence of events as this little girl has done. She saw Maki near Earl, she saw Earl, she saw Maki at the house, she saw him leap from the window, she saw him at the dump. It is an utter physical impossibility to see and be at all the places she has mentioned. And when I asked her who had told her to tell this story she said, 'My mother.'"

"What would be Bakkila's first impulse if he had killed that boy? Would he raise a hue and cry and lay the blame on some one else? The hand that crushed out the life of that child is the most desperate and fiendish ever heard of. Contrast the demeanor of those two men, Bakkila and Maki, on the stand. Did you notice how many arguments Bakkila had with his interpreter? How difficult it was to get the testimony from Bakkila! Notice also the demeanor of Maki on the stand. Did he look and act like a guilty man?
Maki and Mrs. Makila both say that he walked back to the Hill house.
Why didn't he run out of the back way?"

Mr. Barron closed with a plea to the jury to declare Maki innocent.
He begged the jury not to visit on the head of his client any mistakes he might have made. The jury had been carefully chosen and he trusted
them to do their duty.

Judge C. W. Stanton delivered a concise charge to the jury and asked them to give this case their best,
most honest and most earnest consideration. He said in part: "Circumstantial evidence is entitled to as much consideration as direct evidence. The essential element is,
"Did Erick Maki kill Earl Edmund Relly? If you are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that he did the killing you will return a verdict of guilty. A statement that a crime cannot be committed without a motive does not determine whether a crime was committed or not."

The jury then retired to its deliberations in charge of Bailiff A. E.
Whitney. A large audience packed the court house in the closing hours of the trial. Many ladies were present and followed every utterance of attorneys, judge and witnesses with the closest attention.

MANUFACTURES IN VIRGINIA

The Census Bureau's Tentative Summary for 1909, Covering Manufacturing Statistics

Washington, D. C., June 17, 1911.
—A preliminary statement of the general results of the Thirteenth
United States Census of Manufactures of the city of Virginia, Minn., was issued today by Acting Census Director Falkner. It was prepared under the direction of Mr. William M.
Stewart, chief statistician for manufactures, bureau of the census. The figures are subject to such revision as may be necessary after a further examination of the original reports.

There were 21 establishments in 1909, and the value of their products was $519,000, an average per establishment of approximately $25,000.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year, and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year.
The values under this head also include the amount received for work done on materials furnished by others.

Further details can be drawn from the summary which follows: Number of establishments, 21; capital invested, $765,000; cost of materials used, $162,000; salaries and wages
$176,000; miscellaneous expense, $72,000; value of products, $519,000;
value added by manufacture (products less cost of materials), $357,- 000; number of salaried officials and clerks, 22; and average number of wage earners employed during the year, 188.

Britain's Roman Walls.

Agriicola's walls were built about the year 80 to defend Britain from the Picts and Scots. The first extended from the Tyne to the Salway Firth (eighty miles), the second from the Firth of Forth, near Edinburgh, to the Firth of Clyde, near Dumbarton (thirty-six miles). The former wall was renewed and strengthened by the Emperor Hadrian about the year 120 and by Severus about 208. Tourists to England and Scotland may still see many remains of these ancient walls, particularly of the southern one. In many places the foundations are still intact,
with here and there a piece of the wall itself, evidencing the faithfulness with which they were built.—Exchange.

UNITED STATES' ANNUAL GIFT TO OLD WORLD IS $336,000,000

Amount Larger Than Total of Gold and Silver Coined in the Mints

Its Purchasing Power Equal to $100,000,000,000 of Productive Capital

THIS country must of necessity have a balance of trade in its favor of $290,000,000 to keep pace with governmental expenditures. During the two years last past it has been demonstrated as a nation we are spending more than we have earned. We must, therefore, pay a large amount of interest to other nations upon money we have borrowed. Travelers spend great sums abroad. The maintenance of our navy in foreign waters costs large sums of money. At least $150,000,000 a year is sent out of the country by citizens and residents who contribute to relatives and friends in the land of their birth. These figures do not appear in the custom house returns.—From Recent Speech by Governor John A. Dix of New York.

The facts indicate that Governor Dix has underestimated the drain on the United States through money sent or sent abroad. For a number of reasons it is impossible to do more than approximately estimate the enormous extent of this drain on America's active financial capital.

A combination of calculations based on immigration and postal statistics and on the observations of bankers and express and steamship officials shows the following approximations as to the extent to which American dollars take wings and fly away from their native country every year:

Sent abroad	$200,000,000
Carried abroad	136,000,000
Total	$336,000,000

This may be an underestimate of $25,000,000 to $100,000,000 for reasons stated later.

This yearly drain of American money abroad very greatly exceeds the total amount of gold and silver coined in this country in a year, as is shown by the following figures taken from the official report of the treasury department at Washington:

	1900.	1910.
Gold coined	$9,272,000	$8,776,000
Silver coined	38,340,000	9,888,000
Total	$47,612,000	$18,664,000

The drain just about offsets all the United States notes in circulation. It exceeds the total customs receipts, and it is more than twice as great as the total gold and silver production of the country, which in 1910 amounted to $127,242,000, of which $90,232,000 was in gold.

Money That Never Comes Back.

The constant outflow of money from the United States—the greatest outflow of the kind in human history—has been widely discussed in and out of congress, and many remedies have been proposed for what is generally called the country's vast loss of productive capital.

Practically none of the money sent abroad by immigrants to their relatives, it is asserted, comes back to America in any shape whatever. It is used abroad for the support of the immigrants' relatives and then finds its way into the commercial and industrial development of foreign countries.

Investigations in Europe by Marcus Braun and other agents of the United States government have shown that the hundreds of millions of American dollars sent or carried to Europe by American aliens have wrought wonderful changes in the national prosperity of hundreds of communities in all of the great continental countries—Italy, Hungary, the Polish provinces of Russia and Prussia, Germany, Denmark, Holland, Sweden and Norway, England and Ireland.

It is contended by many who have written and spoken on the subject that, as pointed out by Governor Dix, the money sent abroad and not used there for the purchase of goods which are to be sent here is a dead loss to America. It has been many times said that a dollar will buy $365 worth of things in the course of a year. The argument is that every dollar that goes abroad leaves the people of the United States with $365 less of cash purchasing power.

On that theory the $336,000,000 that last year went abroad took out of this country more than $100,000,000,000 of productive cash capital. While the figures differ on this point, there has been a general public agreement by those who have discussed the subject that the United States is seriously handicapped in its financial development by the constant drain of cash for which no return is received in goods.

Parallel Case In a Nutshell.

"When a railroad pays $20,000,000 in wages for its construction," said a congressman in a recent debate, "it expects to get back part of the money in fares or in some other shape. What it does not get back goes into the circulation of the community and brightens things up all around. It buys homes, education and luxuries for the workmen. So long as that money stays in circulation here it is doing good, helping in the material progress of the people, but when that money is sent abroad it is utterly lost to the communities here. It is gone from them. They get none of it. It buys nothing for them. It is just like taking water out of the well and carrying it 3,000 miles away, where it can never run back into that well. Other people drink that water, not the Americans."

As for the many millions spent abroad by American tourists, it is asserted by public men that most all of that money is also lost absolutely from America's store of active capital, so that it has to be replaced by other money which otherwise would have been used in other ways.

The drain on America is unprecedented in the world's history. No nation ever before gained a million a REMARKABLE SERMONS.

Some Were Cruelly Long, and Others Were Models of Brevity.

Sermons are not so lengthy as they used to be, and one seldom sees in the comic prints the joke, so familiar in other times, wherein the minister was chided for his "fourteen" remark which was supposed to mark a period in his sermon somewhat toward its close.

It is said that Thomas Hooker thought his duty ill performed if his sermon did not consume three hours. Once it is related that the famous divine did deliver a really short sermon—preaching exactly fifteen minutes. He sat down, but after a brief rest was up and at it again for two hours more. Every one of Cranmer's sermons was a small volume in itself, and Bunyan, Calvin, Baxter and Knox are all said to have been only a little more merciful to their hearers.

In striking contrast to these long winded discourses may be mentioned some startlingly brief sermons of late years. Perhaps the shortest of all was that delivered by a clergyman at Ocean Grove, N. J., who, after announcing his text, impressively surveyed his congregation and then said: "Don't worry; it's wicked." He then sat down.

It would be difficult to exceed this in brevity and effectiveness, but a north of England vicar in the last century closely approximated it. He gave out the text, "God so loved the world," etc., to which he added this observation: "My friends, did I speak an hour I couldn't make that message any plainer. I'll just leave it with you."

Another example of a brief but extraordinarily effective sermon was furnished by an aged and feeble clergyman in Ohio. He had been requested to deliver a charity address on behalf of orphan children, but his strength was unequal to the task. It was therefore an inspiration indeed that moved him to stretch forth one feeble arm in the direction of the little unfortunate sitting near the pulpit and to exclaim with no little pathos, "Whence shall we find bread that these may eat?"

So impressed was the congregation that the collection was the largest ever taken in that vicinity.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Byron's Three Great Men of Europe.

Lord Byron said that Europe saw three great men in the early part of the nineteenth century. But no one now, in the early part of the twentieth century, could guess at the names of more than one of the three. It may be that Lord Byron was joking, but it is quite possible that he was serious when he named the curious trio.

Third in his little list he placed himself, the second person was Napoleon Bonaparte, and the first and foremost was George Bryan Brummel, Beau Brummel, "king of the beaux" and "Le Roi de Calais"—From Jerrold's "Beaux and Dandies."

Making it Worse.

Willie had just received a severe spanking. "Now, sir," said his father, "you go straight over into the corner there and sit down."

A semihumorous thought struck Willie. He stopped howling, and a sheepish grin overspread his face. "Gee, pa," he remarked, "isn't that sorter rubbin' it in?"—Exchange.

A RISE IN MUTTON.

Only the Leg Went Up, and Then There Came a Drop.

In the "good old days" at the Hay market theater there was being played a musical farce in which was required a real boiled leg of mutton every night. This, according to the law of "property," or, rather, the "property man's" law, went after the performance almost untouched to the official named. But the "lymen" perched up aloft did not like this, for they, too, had wives and families, to whom a boiled leg of mutton would have been a thing to be remembered.

So they hit upon a plan, and one night William Farren, who had the carving of the joint, was asked to fix a hook that would be let down from the flies into the mutton and "leave the rest to them." Farren, always ready for a practical joke, consented and as the scene was coming to a termination fastened the hook into the leg of mutton. As scene shifters were preparing to "close in" and the property man stood in the wings ready to seize on his perquisite the leg of mutton was seen slowly to ascend.

The audience laughed. Henry Compton, who was watching the maneuver, laughed, too, and the employees all gave vent to their feelings in ill suppressed merriment, all except the property man, who remained miserably serious and gazed at the fast departing supper with a woebegone countenance. Suddenly as the scene was almost closed in the hook, which Farren had unfortunately fastened only in the fat, gave way, and down came the coveted mutton with a terrific splash upon the dish.

The audience now roared, the employees roared, both Farren and Compton roared, and as the "fats" hid the unrehearsed tableau from view the now delighted property man rushed upon the stage and secured his ill treated supper.—London Family Herald.
